1785

First Crossing of the English
Channel by flight
The balloonists, Jean-Pierre Blanchard & his American backer, Dr. John Jeffries sat in a car slung beneath the giant hydrogen-filled balloon. The launch from the cliffs of Dover went without crash, but six mi. off the French Coast, the craft began to lose altitude.

The aeronauts lost their equipment & finally most of their clothes.
The happy pair landed in a forest 12 mi inside land, clad only in their underwear.
